

112086 - What are the ahaadeeth that may be used as shar'i evidence?

the question

What are the ahaadeeth which may be accepted and used as evidence in sharee'ah?.

Detailed answer

Praise be to Allah.

The ahaadeeth which must be accepted and taken as evidence are the acceptable ahaadeeth: those which are saheeh or hasan. As for da'eef (weak) and false ahaadeeth, it is not permissible to use them as evidence with regard to shar'i rulings.

Al-Imam al-Shaafa'i said in al-Risaalah (p. 463):

It is obligatory to accept a report once it is proven, even if the imams did not act upon this report. End quote. In other words: once a hadeeth is proven to be from the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him), it is obligatory to act upon it.

'Abd-Allaah ibn al-Imam Ahmad ibn Hanbal said:

I asked my father about a man who has books which contain the words of the Messenger of Allaah (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) and the Sahaabah and Taabi'een, but the man does not know how to recognize da'eef (weak) and matrook (rejected) ahaadeeth, and he cannot tell a strong isnaad from a weak one. Is it permissible for him to act upon whatever he wants and to choose reports and issue fatwas and act on that basis?

He said: he should not do anything until he finds out which ahaadeeth are sound and may be acted upon, so that he will be acting upon a sound basis. He should ask the scholars about that.

Imam Muslim (may Allaah have mercy on him) said:

You should note, may Allaah have mercy on you, that knowledge of hadeeth and determining which are sound and which are unsound is the role of the scholars of hadeeth only, because they are the ones who have memorized the people's reports and they know them well, unlike others. So the basic principle on which they base their beliefs is the Sunnahs and reports which were transmitted from one era to the next from our Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) until the present day. End quote.

Al-Tamyeez, p. 218

Imam al-Sarkhasi (may Allaah have mercy on him) said:

Not following a saheeh hadeeth from the Messenger of Allaah (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) is haraam, just as doing what is contrary to it is haraam. End quote.

Usool al-Sarkhasi (2/7).

Al-Nawawi (may Allaah have mercy on him) said:

The scholars said: Ahaadeeth are of three types: saheeh (sound), hasan (good) and da'eef (weak). They said: It is only permissible to quote as evidence concerning rulings those ahaadeeth which are saheeh or hasan. As for those which are da'eef, it is not permissible to quote them as evidence with regard to rulings or beliefs, but it is permissible to narrate them and act upon them with regard to matters other than rulings, such as stories, virtuous deeds, and offering encouragements and warnings. End quote.

The one who wants to quote as evidence a hadeeth from the Sunans or Musnads, if he is qualified to distinguish between what may be quoted as evidence and what may not, then he should not quote it as evidence unless he examines its isnaad and its narrators. Otherwise if he can find one of the imams who classed it as saheeh or hasan, he may follow him, otherwise he should not quote it as evidence. End quote.
